

BELLIURE • ENDURANCE 50' NEW EDITION

Intended to revitalise existing appeal and stimulate new commercial interest, a series of practical improvements and enhancements - undertaken by Barracuda Yacht Design - for the well known Belliure ENDURANCE 50', can be seen for the first time at next week's Palma International Boat Show.

Retaining as much of the charm, character and personality of the original design as we could, the new Belliure 50' is a fully GL approved yacht with subtle improvements and new efficiencies all around.

Changing from a centre-cockpit to an aft-cockpit configuration allowed for a more voluminous, and therefore more 'sociable' cockpit, lengthened from 2m to 4m and made slightly wider than before.

Access to the water has been simplified via a bespoke steps and boarding platform system, discreetly enclosed as part of the transom itself and therefore taking nothing away from the overall smooth and clean looking appearance of the 'traditional' stern.

As befitting the classic 'look', the coach-roof side-profile has been kept purposefully low, with large, flush-fitting skylights in the roof to allow plenty of natural light inside. The emphasis on 'space and light' theme continues in such a way that guests whether standing or seated inside can equally look out through eye-level windows.

Layout innovations and clever touches prevail; including the decision to locate the owner's cabin in the bow and generally acknowledged to be the quietest position in the yacht when moored stern-to. Likewise, two symmetrical en-suite guest cabins aft each have the added benefit of a hand basin and vanity unit intended to make guests feel that little bit more special while onboard.

The U-shaped galley takes up a far less obtrusive position located forward as it is, yet remains only a short walk away from the bottom of the companionway steps for easy access when the yacht is on passage at sea.
